

“Love Triangles”

Matthew 10: 24-39 | 06.25.23

Sermon Recap

- A simple question of what the most important relationship in your life is, led into relearning that if we have any relationship that is more important than our personal relationship with Christ, then other relationships will not be as strong.
- Sheila touched on some of the ways that people might think that other things are more important to you; where you spend your money, your time and how you treat others.
- It was mentioned how complicated it is to want to love your spouse, children, parents and friends more than it is to love Christ, which is the most important!

Questions for Reflection and Discussion:

1. What is your favorite part of the Independence Day holiday?
2. When people look at you, what would they think is the most important relationship in your life?
3. Is there ever a time that you think your relationship with Christ should be less important than other relationships?
4. How can we Pray for you today?
